You say I am repeating something I have said before. I shall say it again. Shall I say it again? In order to arrive there, To arrive where you are, to get from where you are not, You must go by a way wherein there is no ecstasy. In order to arrive at what you do not know You must go by a way which is the way of ignorance. In order to possess what you do not possess You must go by the way of dispossession. In order to arrive at what you are not You must go through the way in which you are not. And what you do not know is the only things you know
And what you own is what you do not own
And where you are is where you are not.

O the vainness, and the frailties, and the foolishness of men! When they are learned they think they are wise, and they hearken not unto the counsel of God, for they set it aside, supposing they know of themselves, wherefore, their wisdom is foolishness and it profiteth them not. But to be learned is good if they hearken unto the counsels of God.

To the colleagues and mentors that I may not see in the near future, you are the greatest bunch of people. I wish you all the best. Stay in touch. -Marty

Do not think of yourself more highly than you ought, but rather think of yourself with sober judgment, in accordance with the measure of faith God has given you. Just as each of us has one body with many members, and these members do not all have the same function, so in Christ we who are many form one body, and each member belongs to all the others. We have different gifts, according to the grace given us. If a man's gift is prophesying, let him use it in proportion to his faith. If it is serving, let him serve; if it is teaching, let him teach; if it is encouraging, let him encourage; if it is contributing to the needs of others, let him give generously; if it is leadership, let him govern diligently; if it is showing mercy, let him do it cheerfully. Count That Day Lost

George Eliot

We can look back on each day as being either lost or spent. Mary Ann Evans, better known as George Eliot (1819-1880), shows us how to tell the difference, and what is worth a day's expense.

If you sit down at set of sun
And count the acts that you have done,
and, counting, find
One self-denying deed, one word
That eased the heart of him who heard,
One glance most kind
That fell like sunshine where it went-
Then you may count that day well spent.

But if, through all the livelong day,
You've cheered no heart, by yea or nay-
If, through it all
You've nothing done that you can trace
That brought the sunshine to one face-
No act most small
That helped some soul and nothing cost-
Then count that day as worse than lost.

Where Are They Now?

Michele Roscoe

efore leaving Hahnemann, Michele accumulated millions of dollars worth of nclaimed scholarships. She was last seen partying with the Italian National occer Team on a beach in Florence.

Paul Miller

Paul is currently enjoying a lucrative career wrestling for the WWF under the pseudonym, "The Coordinator".

Michael Lischke

Mike was arguably the youngest director in the history of Medical School Admissions. Today he has his driver's license and is reportedly excited about he chance to vote in the next presidential election.

Kathy Callahan

After a brief stint in the Peace Corps, Kathy moved to Alaska in order to pursue her first love: clubbing baby seals

A Message To The Class Of 1998

Dear Fellow Students,

I hope the time you spent at Hahnemann has been as enjoyable for you as it has been for me. During times of my illness, you were a tremendous support for me, and I hope that Vince and I were able to be of some help to you when the need occurred. You are a special class, and you should be proud of your accomplishments and the camaraderie you showed to each other. Bev, Vince and I enjoyed all the times you stopped in the office to chat or just pick up a piece of candy. Each and every one of you is special to me. Your personal characteristics, even during times of turmoil, have held the class together and produced a mature and happy group.

Perhaps it was your love of humor and laughter that I admired most. Tessa Bielecki said, "Laughter can be a sign of deep faith, deep love, and deep hope. It may be our highest manifestation of compassion." I know you will always excel in your chosen specialty, but you should always remember to keep your professional life in proper perspective. Above all, take care of yourselves and those important to you. Bev, Vince and I hope you never forget how to relax, how to laugh, how to play, how to be.

Love,
Sue

THE BLUES BROT

"And Now Let Me Tell You About My Friend, Doctor Sue"

I first met Sue Zarro about 24 years ago when, as a medical student, she took Microbiology and Immunology and was assigned to my laboratory and conference section. Perhaps her experiences as a wife (of Vince) and mother (of Jacqueline, Gregory, and Jennifer) and her years following graduation from Ursinus College helped, but I have come to believe that her poise, maturity, coping skills, and quiet competence were always there, even as a very young person.

I saw her infrequently during the remainder of her time as a medical student, but I was there in the spring of 1978 at the Academy of Music when she took the Hippocratic Oath and received the degree of Doctor of Medicine. Little did I know at that time that she would become a valued colleague as well as a dear friend. She spent the next several years as a Resident in Internal Medicine at Hahnemann and then began her career as a member of the Anatomy faculty where she is Assistant Professor of Neurobiology and Anatomy and also holds academic appointments in the Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine and the Department of Biological Sciences.

She has had a distinguished career as a teacher and Course Director of Microscopic and Developmental Anatomy which was recognized by her receiving the Christian R. And Mary F. Lindback Foundation Award for Distinguished Teaching in 1990 and more recently when she received the 1997 Trustees Award for Teaching Excellence in the pre-clinical years. I believe that these awards also reflect the universal esteem in which she is held by students and faculty alike as a role model of old-fashioned integrity and judgement. She is an artist, a lover of literature, and a very good listener. When I (and I suspect others as well) ask her for counsel, I receive it, stripped of sentimentality, spare of words, but right to the point and in terms that I need to hear and which I cannot ignore.

She is the winner of four Golden Apple Awards for service to medical students and in her role as an Associate Dean of Student Affairs she has achieved the kind of student regard reserved for only a very few. Whether serving as a faculty advisor to a student committee, presiding over a barbecue that celebrates the end of exams, lending her shoulder and sympathetic ear to countless students and faculty , or writing hundreds of Dean's letters, she is in a class all by herself. Always a student advocate, advisor, confidant and trusted friend, she has been able to affect many students' lives and through them, their patients'. She is a prodigious worker willing to take on the most arduous of tasks. Her product is excellence, and her desire and ability to accomplish her goals sets a standard for all to emulate. Whether as a champion of all students or any one in particular, no task is too mundane or difficult. Woe betide anyone who attempts to give less than their best for her students. A loyal alumna of the Hahnemann University School of Medicine, she represents a generation of physician educators and administrators that have served their alma mater and profession well. Dr. Sue is my friend and a friend to hundreds of medical students, past and present, whose lives she has touched and made better.

Associate Dean for Medical Education, MCP✦Hahnemann

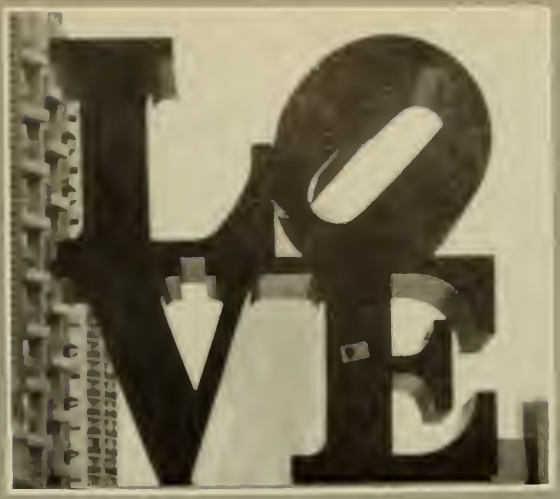
A Letter Of Thanks

by
Jeff Puglisi



Dear Dr. Zarro:

During the interview process many people asked me who I identified as my role model or mentor in medicine. To me, you have always been such a person. I first met you while you were a professor of Histology, only to find that you also served as my faculty advisor. Soon you would influence me as Dean of students, later as chair of various student committees, then as a community service leader. Your roles have always changed but the direction you gave me never wavered. I am honored to express how thankful our graduating class is for what you have done for us over the past four years.

Many Hahnemann graduates have described their medical school experience as a "family affair" because of the individuals that encouraged and nurtured them throughout their medical school careers. I offer this fact to be the most attractive one that our school offers. Dr. Zarro, you and your husband, Vince, have continued that tradition for all of us. Both of you form the foundation that keeps our medical school family stable. There is great comfort in knowing you are there for us, and I can venture to say that all of the students have been positively affected by this relationship.

This year marks the end of an era as the last class graduates from Hahnemann University. As a part of the tradition you have helped build here, we would like to dedicate this yearbook in your honor.

Love Always,

Jeffrey S. Puglisi
On behalf of the Hahnemann Graduating Class of '98

Although we are the last class to bear Hahnemann's name, we are certainly not the first. Let us take a moment to recognize those who have come before us, for they are not simply alumni, they are family.

After 150 Years, It's Nice To Know Some Things Never Change

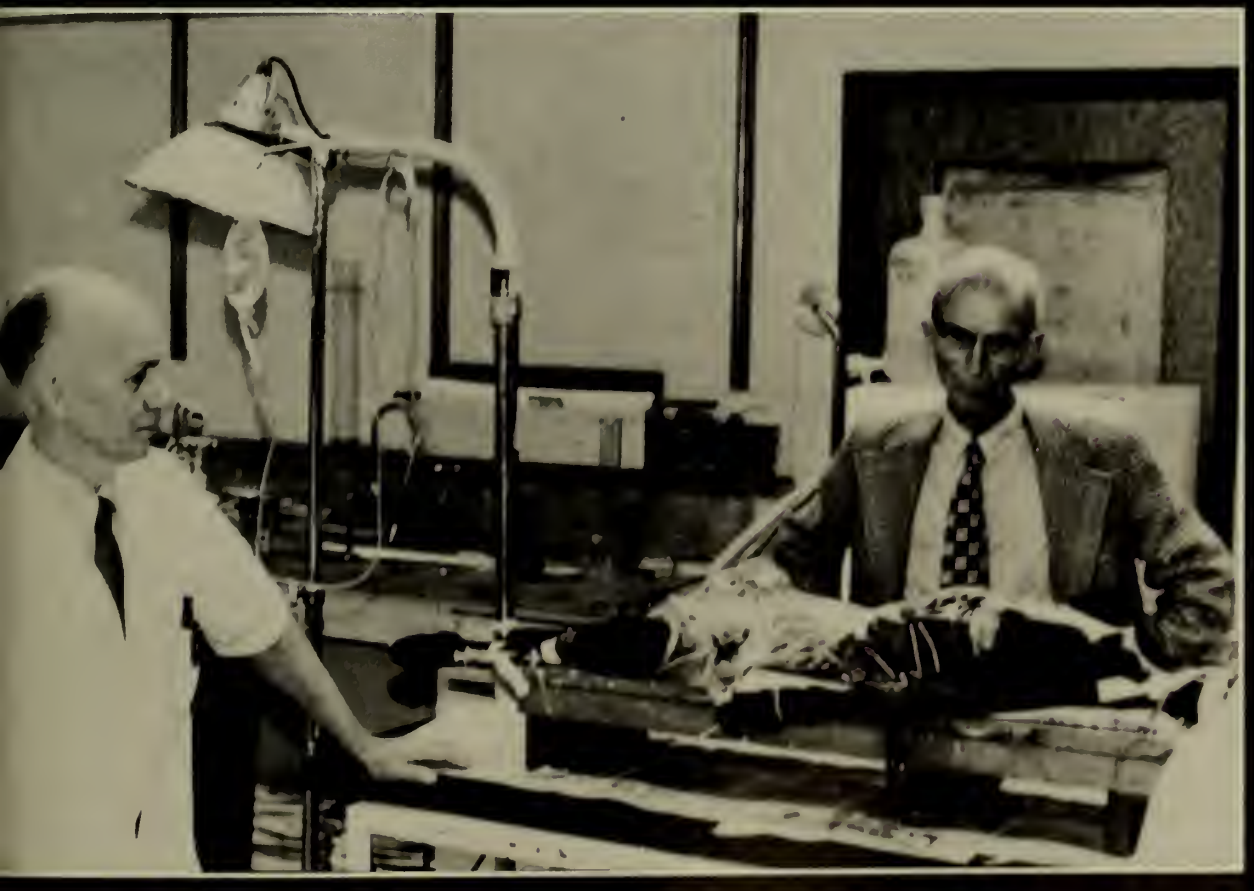
Going to lecture

Learning to draw blood

Snacking at the carts

Seeing patients on the floors.

Dissecting cadavers.



Injecting small dogs with a series of highly experimental and potentially dangerous drugs for hours on end.

HAHNEMANN: A commitment to knowledge, a vow of service, and a tradition ... of dignity?

If this is scur, I LIKE IT!

Now thor's what I call a cansult!

Con you say, "No ifs, ands, or butts?"

I know I should be working, but I con't stop thinking about those rugby ployers' osses!

Guess what? They're attendings now.

Did You Know ...

Hahnemann was the center of controversy long before talk of a merger began. Check out this article from the 1979 MEDIC entitled, "Hahnemann History in Our Time".

The new hospital and Wharton Shober

The history of Hahnemann during our time has been marked by much controversy. Tuition for the senior class has more than doubled since beginning at Hahnemann in 1975. This has driven scores of students into taking military and public health scholarships. Fortunately nobody has yet had to drop out of school because of an inability to pay for school.

During the senior year the issue of on-call erupted causing the near strike of medical students. The question of the quality of learning during on-call was triggered by the loss of sleeping quarters in the hospital for medical students. The hospital responded to student demands by finding available rooms within the hospital to serve as sleeping areas until the new hospital is finished. The hospital has also agreed to continue to supply meals for students on call. A night shift I.V. stick team has been added to reduce the scut work encountered by medical students on call. The issue of whether or not night call serves any educational purpose still remains to be resolved.

But the big story at Hahnemann during our time has been the scandal associated with construction of the new Hahnemann Hospital wing and the infamous Wharton Shober.

The story of Wharton Shober's involvement with Hahnemann is a long and sordid affair beginning long before the arrival of the current senior class on the scene. Wharton Shober became the hospital president in 1971 by using a falsified resume. Space does not permit a complete listing of all the Shober scandals during his eight year reign. However, a partial list includes the following:

— Filipino nurse "slave labor" scandal during which nurses were shipped in from the Phillipines for "advanced training" which they did not receive but worked as nurses but without pay

— Nicaraguan dictator scandal during which Shober awarded General Anastasio Somoza an honorary medical degree and charged Hahnemann $10,000 for the party in honor of the dictator

— Misuse of power scandal during which Shober used Hahnemann employees and money to fix up his Windsor Apartment

But the biggest scandal of all concerned the construction of the new Hospital. At the time of this printing two U.S. Congressmen — Joshua Eilberg and Daniel Flood as well as Shober have been indicted on a variety of charges. Although it had been over a year since Shober was removed, Hahnemann is still paying for the sins of the Shober years. Hahnemann is currently near a state of financial ruin. With the bonds for the new hospital falling due in July, the current austerity budget and fund raising effort may not be enough to save Hahnemann from bankruptcy. Hahnemann's future remains clouded.

Hahnemann Spirit

Athletics were very important in the early Hahnemann years. The school had seven tennis courts, a track field, and a ball field at 20th and Callowhill. They had football, basketball, swimming, baseball, and track teams. Hahnemann played many colleges such as Dartmouth and Haverford, as well as other medical schools such as Jefferson and Penn. The Class of 1900's (MDCCCC) yell was:

Succus, Entericus, Gastric Bile,
Auricles, Ventricles, Sigmoid, Chyle,
MDC, CCC,
Hahnemann, Hahnemann,
Rah, Rah, Ree!!

Did You Know...

In 1893, Dr. Rufus Weaver received a gold medal at the Columbian World Fair Exhibition in Chicago for this dissection of the human nervous system named "Harriet" (an employee of Dr. Weaver who donated her body to science).

Did You Know...

In 1948, Dr. Charles P. Bailey (1932 alumnus) performed the world's first successful valvular surgery within the human heart (mitral valve commisurotomy). It was the cover story for TIME Magazine on March 25, 1957.

Thank you for spending it with me.

Looking forward to sharing the rest of our lives and love together.

Besos, Carla & Lillie Belle, too.

Nichelle T. Simmons, M.D.

Nichelle,
Well you did it. I can only hope that I was half the emotional support, motivation and inspiration that you were to me throughout law school. I can only imagine just how difficult medical school really was. But just know that I aspire to be your "ROCK" as you are already mine. And as we enter this new phase of our lives, I can't help but feel that, side by side—sky is the limit

Forever, Mario

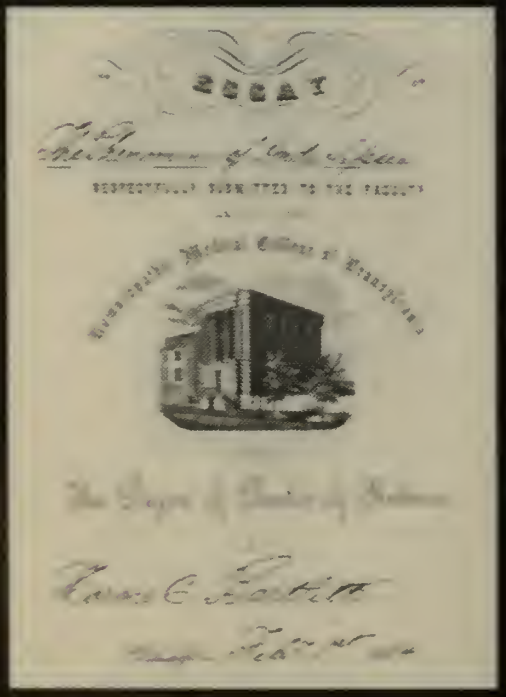
Hahnemann University School of Medicine Alumni Association

Samuel Hahnemann, M.D., 1755 - 1843 - The college was named Hahnemann Medical College in honor of Samuel Hahnemann, the founder of homeopathic medicine.

May 28, 1998 - Another milestone in our long-standing history is added as the Class of 1998 graduates from the Hahnemann University School of Medicine.

Rufus B. Weaver, M.D., and Harriet, 1898 - Rufus Weaver, M.D., faculty member from 1869 to 1925, completed a unique dissection of a complete human cerebro-spinal nervous system, fondly known as Harriet. Dr. Weaver's dissection was awarded a gold medal at the World's Fair Columbian Exposition in Chicago, 1893.



Thesis Cover, 1864 - Homeopathic Medical College required a graduation "thesis."

Charles P. Bailey, M.D. '32 - In 1948, a Hahnemann alumnus performed the world's first successful valvular surgery within a closed human heart and later established the country's first cross-disciplinary heart research institute, the William Likoff Cardiovascular Institute.

of 1998

Commencement Invitations, 1884 and 1887 - Commencement was first held at the Academy of Music in the late nineteenth century, and, in some years, graduates paraded down Broad Street to the Academy in full regalia.

The Greater Hahnemann, 1928 - Greater Hahnemann was built in 1928, one of the first high-rise teaching hospitals in the country with 20 stories designed for over 700 beds.

We wish you the best of luck! Remember your alma mater!

Hahnemann Medical College Library 1890

Our Founders - Constantine Hering, M.D., [illegible] James, M.D., and Walter Williamson, M.D., founded a medical school to educate physicians according to an alternative vision for the practice of medicine.

Medic in Years Gone By

Medic began in 1928 as the official yearbook of Hahnemann Medical College. Between 1898 and 1922, "class books" had occasionally been published under various names.

Dr. Carl Fischer, '28, former Chair of Pediatrics at Hahnemann and former Chairman of the American Academy of Pediatrics, was the Editor-in-Chief of the first Medic and copyrighted the name. A Medic has been issued every year since, with two in 1943, when each of the two wartime accelerated graduating classes issued its own.

Traditionally, graduating student portraits and biographies have been included, along with class histories and highlights, organizations and activities. We hope that the 1998 issue of Medic will provide you with lasting memories of your medical school years at Hahnemann University. Our office wishes you success in all of your future endeavors.
